Army Can't Get Officers.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Although progress in filling the fifteen hundred vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant in the enlarged regular army has been rather slow thus far, the War Department has decided not to hasten the graduation of the senior class at West Point. It has been suggested that the class of approximately one hundred and forty cadets complete their term in January next year instead of June but after careful consideration the department directed that the regular course be pursued. Since Congress authorized the selection of second lieutenants from civil life after examination, nearly one thousand men have been designated to appear before examining boards. Nearly eight hundred of these have been examined, about two-thirds of whom passed the tests. Additional examinations will be held in November and also in January and still others as rapidly as new classes of candidates are formed. Department officials expect to obtain a hundred or more second lieutenants from the enlisted personnel of the army on the basis of reports in examinations received thus far. It is regarded as improbable, however, that all vacancies can be filled before July 1, next, when an additional shortage will be shown by the organization of the second increment.

WOMAN KILLED BY MOTOR CAR AT HUME

Mrs. Matilda Banks Fatally Hurt by Car Driven by J. L. McConnell.

In crossing the street from the postoffice to the park corner in Hume at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, Mrs. Matilda Banks, 86 years old, was struck by a motor car driven by J. L. McConnell, a prominent business man, and was killed almost instantly. It is stated that McConnell was driving east and when he observed the woman in the street, blew the whistle in warning, but the woman only seemed dazed as she failed to get out of the way and the driver was unable to stop the car. The accident is deeply deplored by the Mr. McConnell and the citizens generally. Mrs. Banks was an old and highly respected resident of Hume. She is survived by an only sister. Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock from the M. E. Church Saturday.—Rich Hill Review.

Moving a mill pond was the task successfully essayed in Maries county the other day, according to the Belle Times. The feat was accomplished by the aid of dynamite, and when the movers had finished, the pond was thirty feet nearer the engine house of the electric light plant and flour mill.

The first thirteen spans of mules sold at a Daviess county sale this week averaged more than $400 a span, says the St. Joseph Observer, and the entire proceeds of the annual mule, cattle and hog auction there was something more than $14,000. The sale is an annual affair and is held at the farm of Bert Barnett, northeast of Gallatin.

William Barton of Independence, Mo., was burned to death at Lees Summit Thursday and several persons were injured when the Hotel Summit was destroyed by fire. More than 40 guests were driven from the hotel by the flames, a few being forced to jump from the second-floor windows. Barton was an employee of the county and was married.

Machinists, blacksmiths, boiler makers, sheet metal workers and carmen, together with helpers and apprentices on the entire Missouri Pacific system, have been granted a wage increase of 2 1/2 cents an hour through a contract signed with the company. The old Johnson county court house, on Main street in Old Town, Warrensburg, which is now occupied by Harry Davis as a residence, caught on fire from a defective flue Friday morning shortly after eight o'clock. A bucket brigade was formed and had the fire extinguished by the time the fire company made the run up Old Town hill. The old court house building was built in 1842, and was made famous by Senator Vest's eulogy on the dog.

A hog weighing 1,035 pounds was shipped to the state fair from Columbia by A. O. Boyd, formerly of the Middle Grove vicinity. The animal is of the big type Poland China and is not a freak, being perfectly formed in every respect. The hog is forty-four inches around the heart, and is valued at $1,000. Mr. Boyd says that so far as he knows this is the biggest hog in the state. He has another that has a bigger frame but does not weigh quite so much. A Centralia butcher estimated that if this hog was butchered the owner would get 400 pounds of hams, 300 pounds of shoulders, 200 pounds of bacon, 25 pounds of leaf lard and 8 pounds of spare ribs.
